Immune System Support

In 1984, Japanese scientists discovered that by hybridizing several mushrooms used in traditional healing they could develop a natural compound that would give the body what it needs to maintain "super immunity." Named Active Hexose Correlated Compound (AHCC®), it has a unique alpha-1, 4 glucan structure and low molecular weight that research shows provides unsurpassed support for the immune system's front-line defenses:*

- Maintaining peak Natural Killer cell function*
- Supporting enhanced cytokine production*
- Promoting optimal T-cell and macrophage activity*

Natural Killer (NK) cells are your immune system's front-line defense. They inject invaders with cytotoxic granules, granule lysis dissolve cell membrane causing invaders to "explode" in seconds.

Based on over 20 published studies and the clinical experience of hundreds of hospitals and tens of thousands of consumers, AHCC has become Japan's best selling immune enhancing supplement. Now it's available in America as ImmPower™, AHCC® where its gaining the endorsement of leading experts in nutritional medicine.

Compare and switch from the popular immune enhancing supplements with little or no independent research to ImmPower™, AHCC®.

- Better research*
- Better results*
- Less Expensive than other immune enhancing supplements.
